

You wish to register your design?

Perform a search to be on the safe side.

We record your design in the register if your application does not contain formal defects. We do not examine whether your design is new and has individual character. The legal requirements for protection or a possible infringement of earlier rights will only be examined in invalidity proceedings at the DPMA or by the civil courts in case of a dispute between you as the applicant and a third party.

Search the existing pool of design creations before and after filing an application. This will give you an idea of the diversity of protected designs. You will detect current trends and get an inspiration or stimulus for your own creative work. The individual character of your design should distinguish it clearly from the results of the design search.

Designs that have not been filed for registration are automatically covered by design rights within the European Union for three years from the first publication (non-registered Community design). That is why you should conduct additional searches in product directories e.g. by using Internet search engines.

Assistance in design searches may be available from various service providers, in particular, from:

- patent information centres
- patent attorneys
- search agents
- lawyers

They will carry out searches for identical designs and complex similarity searches or provide access to fee-based, unofficial design databases. Furthermore, patent attorneys and lawyers will help you to interpret the search results and answer your questions about IP infringement.
